Celebrating How First Responders Inspire Taking Responsibility

Be The Neighbor! Be The Samaritan!

Generally speaking "first responders" have and hold our attention because their courage, but even more their deep sense of compassion, are the driving force of their lives. They move toward trouble almost as if it were their second nature to do so. Their stories inspire us to look for and cultivate compassion and courage in our own lives. And if we have been rescued ourselves from danger by their heroic efforts, we often want to live differently. Our choices tend to become more generous, more positive and creative.

The key to becoming and being an effective "first responder" is good basic training and the discipline of practicing what you've been taught so that it does become one's "second nature".

*"For this command that I enjoin on you today is not too mysterious and remote for you. It is not up in the sky ....
Nor is it across the sea .... No, it is something very near to you, already in your mouths and in your hearts; you have only to carry it out."*

Book of Deuteronomy 30:10-14

St. Luke today again reports on the basic training of a disciple of Christ and reveals some of the necessary disciplines for responding to the needs of others with "mercy" – "heartfelt compassion". Christian believers –

- Do not let fundamental differences in beliefs or values blind them to another's need or inhibit them from action on behalf of someone in need,
- Practice "extended generosity", that is, "giving that foresees" the possible future needs on someone in trouble, and
- Engage others in civic and civil conversations that are more about "we" than "me" coming into the Reign of God, inheriting eternal life.

In our time Catholic Christians need to more fully embrace the First Amendment insurance of our right and responsibility to speak and act on behalf of the common good. Responding to the needs of our society and culture out of the rich context of our beliefs and values will always inspire compassion and courage. Practicing and teaching what we believe always inspires others to take greater responsibility for ourselves and those in need. As we address the Gospel question – "Who is my neighbor?" – remember:

We believe in marriage between a man and a woman as a natural right. And, we must be the first to defend the dignity and human rights of all gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender persons.

We value the sovereignty and security of our nation, but never at the expense of immigrant peoples whose needs ought to be our concern and whose gifts so often enrich us as a country.

We believe that the poor ought to have first rights to our loving care and material support. As Jesus commanded by the example of his life and by his teaching, we strive to have a preferential option for the poor.

Poverty breeds ignorance, violence, and the discriminations that divide us. No less today than for the 1st century Church those in need for the lack of employment or good schools or adequate health care or any public services that enable their human dignity and the fulfillment of their human potential are our ticket to heaven, eternal life now and forever. A person of faith is a potential true "first responder", who already "knows" how to be a good neighbor. We "have only to carry it out", to cultivate for ourselves the necessary disciplines to "do this and you will live".

LIVING GOD'S COMMANDS

The first reading forms part of Moses' farewell discourse, a call to the people to return to God. It is not a legalistic summons; rather, it is an appeal to heart and soul. It outlines a command that is not impossible to follow, or too difficult to undertake, or too expensive. Look into your hearts, says Moses; there you will find what to do. Paul sees Jesus Christ as the image of God, the agent of creation and preservation. We sense, in his words, things profound: "dominions or principalities or powers." But in the midst of that, Paul keeps his attention on Jesus Christ, head of the church. It is in Christ that we find fullness and reconciliation—in the blood of the cross. Luke's Gospel illustrates the double commandment of love with the story of the Good Samaritan. The story is a radical one, for it comes to focus on the question of who my "neighbor" is. That neighbor is not identified with any group, but rather by the scope of our compassion.

A friend of mine sent me this and I wanted to share it with all of you:

As I've aged, I've become kinder to, and less critical of, myself. I've become my own friend. I have seen too many dear friends leave this world, too soon; before they understood the great freedom that comes with aging,

Whose business is it if I choose to read, or play on the computer, until 4 a.m., or sleep until noon? I will dance with myself to those wonderful tunes of the 50's, 60's and 70's, and if I, at the same time, wish to weep over a loved one, I will.

I will walk the beach, in a swim suit that is stretched over a bulging body, and will dive into waves, and abandon, if I choose to, despite the pitying glances from the jet set. They, too, will get old.

I know I am sometimes forgetful. But there again, some of life is just as well forgotten and eventually, I remember the important things. Sure, over the years, my heart has been broken. How can your heart not break, when you lose a loved one, or when a child suffers, or even when somebody's beloved pet gets hit by a car? But broken hearts are what gives us strength, and understanding and compassion. A heart never broken, is pristine, and sterile, and will never know the joy of being imperfect. I am so blessed to have lived love enough to have my hair turning gray, and to have my youthful laughs be forever etched into deep grooves on my face. So many have never laughed, and so many have died before their hair could turn silver.

As you get older, it is easier to be positive. You care less about what other people think. I don't question myself any more. I've even earned the right to be wrong.

So, I like being old. It has set me free. I like the person I have become. I am not going to live forever, but while I am here, I will not waste time lamenting what could have been, or worrying about what could have been, or worrying about what will be. And I shall eat dessert every single day (if I feel like it.)

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

On a summer day, with the windows open, we may hear the sound of church bells. Bells seem to have come into church life in Irish monasteries around the seventh century, and spread around the Christian world by Irish monks on missionary journeys. By the eighth century, bells were standard equipment in even small parish churches. An ancient ceremony, once called the "baptism of the bells," recognizes that the church bell has a voice to call people to awareness and summon them to worship, and even bestows a name on the bell.

In a world without clocks or watches, the bell had an indispensable role. For calling monks in from the fields for prayer, or alerting far-flung visitors, the bell's voice was enhanced by hoisting it high into a tower. Soon it was learned that the sound of several bells clanging together in harmony imparted a sense of joy to great celebrations, and bell towers prospered, some chock full of bells. Different combinations of rings could indicate a death, a Mass, a wedding, a fast day, the curfew at the end of day, and the Angelus. Before electricity, bell-ringing was hard work indeed: the biggest bell in the Catholic world, in Cologne, Germany, weighs twenty-seven tons! There's no substitute for the resonant roar of a mighty bell; electric chimes are not eligible for blessing!

Preset your radio to AM 1460 KHOJ, Catholic Radio. Programming includes daily Holy Mass, the Rosary, and the Divine Mercy Chaplet. Now in its third year, the Summer Academy program has helped many students during the past two summers. Teachers and principals invite students who would most benefit for the program to sign up for the Summer Academy. Families pay a small fee for participation. This is a great example of how our Federation schools working together can be of greater service to students and families—more than each school could do alone!

BLOOD DRIVE

Holy Name of Jesus and Mississippi Valley Regional Blood Center are teaming up to hold a blood drive on Tuesday, July 16th, from 3PM – 7PM at Holy Name of Jesus Parish Community Center. Here is one thing I would like you to think about; donating blood has no age cap. If you are unsure if you can give due to medications you take, please stop by to be interviewed by the nurse. Please consider donating and possibly saving someone's life. It only takes an hour. You must have a picture ID to donate blood, unless you have already donated with MVRBC. If you have questions regarding blood donation, please call Buffy Modde, Parish Nurse @ 868-2310 ext. 11.

St. Patrick's Center Mostaccioli Casseroles

We know that the weather has been really hot, and no one wants to heat up their kitchen with Baking Mostaccioli Casseroles. Just remember that there are people waiting to taste your good cooking at St. Patrick's Center.

Be sure to bring your casseroles to us on July 18th between the hours of 7:00am and 9:30am so that we can get them to St. Patrick's Center in time for lunch.

We will be at the South portal of church with our shamrock flag flying to collect your casseroles.

Please call us if you have any questions.

Saint Ignatius of Loyola (1491-1556) created a series of spiritual exercises that help a searching person discern where God is calling him or her at life's crossroads. Are you wondering if your possible plans for the next phase of your life are of God? Making Ignatius' spiritual exercises can help you decide. Saint Louis is home to many experienced spiritual directors who can guide you through the exercises. Learn about this opportunity at <http://www.bridgesfoundation.org/bridgesI.html>.

Holy Name of Jesus parishioner Greg Warnusz, 314-867-5018, while not a director, has made the exercises in this way, and may be able to answer your questions.
