celebrating your generous support
as catholics we are here to serve

For more than a few decades the generosity of Catholics in support of the Annual Catholic Appeal and the Beyond Sunday Capital Campaign has benefited the mission of our Church across all North County communities. In particular, your gifts and pledges have and continue to support the mission of Catholic elementary and secondary education for 16 parishes and 9 schools.

The collaboration of parishes has benefited school faculties and programs across the Deanery and has begun to expand into parish religious education programs for children, youth, and adults.

More than in any other region where I have served, it has been the commitment of parish and school leaders that has sustained and developed our academic excellence, religious education programs, and faith formation activities. This is especially true in our ability to collaborate for the more effective use of our resources and in our willingness to adapt to the needs of the communities we serve.

Some would say that the Catholic Church in North County is barely surviving. In many ways the mission of Catholic education is actually thriving.

Our Federation of Catholic schools is 10 years old. This collaboration of parishes has benefited school faculties and programs across the Deanery and has begun to expand into parish religious education programs for children, youth, and adults. Organizing schools in common has enabled all schools to benefit from over $200,000 in grants and an ever-increasing amount of tuition assistance funds for our school families. By working together we have been able to give much more critical attention to the development and use of technology in our classrooms and learning programs, more careful attention to the learning needs of our students and their families, and more intentional focus on the issues and concerns of our region. (See the Federation's statement of Our Commitment on the following.)

Over the past 3 weeks every pastor and principal of our Deanery had the opportunity to contribute to this statement. All are in agreement with its content. I believe that it adds to the credibility of our being here.

All this might seem a strange thing to say with the recent closure of our school. Truly the loss of Christ Light of the Nations School has been a setback for this mission, another victim of the Covid-19 pandemic. However, I am sure that God will finish what God has started with us here. With God nothing good ever goes to waste. The good work of our faculty and staff will continue on in the lives of so many we've served in the past, and through them for many others yet to come.

OUR COMMITMENT

As we all reflect, pray, and consider our own understanding and response to the tragic death of George Floyd, the unjustified deaths of many other people of color, and the ensuing demonstrations across our nation, we, the leaders of Catholic parishes and schools in North St. Louis County, hope to offer a degree of encouragement and guidance to our community. Humility and compassion must remain at the center of our thinking and feeling as we examine injustices both personal and systemic in our community, nation and world.

The Federation of Catholic Schools aims to make Catholic education a welcoming and inclusive home for our children and their families. This work includes the academic growth of our students as well as building social and spiritual capital in our neighborhoods through our school and parish communities. We must now support our students and their families through these current days of prayer and reflection, peaceful protest, vandalism and violence across our nation, in response to racism, impacting people of color, including many of our students and their families. We are grateful for those who have brought this reality to the attention of the world once again by raising their voices and telling their stories.

The Federation and its members will always work to examine our own practices and procedures, biases and blind spots, and the feedback and perspectives of our staff, students, and parents, to ensure that we are providing an inclusive, welcoming, and provident school community. We encourage families to talk and listen to their children. Speak clearly and explicitly, remembering that the Church holds parents and families as the first and primary educators of their children. Silence is a message. Our children are looking to all of us to help them process and understand more fully the events and emotions that have been placed before us. As Christians and as Catholics, as brothers and sisters in Christ, as human beings, we are called and compelled to speak against injustice, against violence, against bigotry, against hate. We are called and compelled to assume goodwill, to work for peace, and to realize and appreciate the dignity of every human person as they are made in God's image.

The Federation of Catholic Schools will continue to work for academic, spiritual, and social empowerment for our students, their families, and our local communities. We will continue to hold the spiritual, cultural, and economic diversity of our collective student body, our parish congregations, and our neighborhoods as a precious responsibility and crucial strength. We will work to make the Catholic education of the children of North St. Louis County an experience of safety, of love, and of excellence.

We encourage everyone to access Archbishop Robert J. Carlson's Statement Regarding Racism and the Pursuit of Justice and Peace in the Greater St. Louis Region.
