Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Laudetur Jesus Christus, In Saecula Saeculorum! Today, we reflect on the theme of belonging and producing. In the readings from Isaiah 5:1-7, Philippians 4:6-9, and Matthew 21:33-43, we encounter stories that highlight the responsibility we have in responding to God's goodness. We often focus on the consequences faced by the characters in these stories, but we must not overlook the fact that God has provided everything we need to flourish.

It is natural to question whether God is doing His job, but we must remember that even Jesus, in His humanity, cried out to God in moments of despair. During times of difficulty, disappointment, and trial, we may wonder if God has abandoned us. However, we must also have the courage and faith to look inward and consider what we are failing to do.

We may not have control over what God does, but we do have control over our choices and actions. Instead of assigning blame for a broken world, let us take responsibility for our own mistakes and shortcomings. By making changes in our own lives, we can contribute to a world that bears more fruit. It is never too late to bring about the best yield ever.

+++ Lord of the vineyard, we humbly ask for your guidance in living out the Gospel and bearing the fruits of the Spirit: love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, generosity, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control. May your Spirit dwell within us and empower us to manifest these virtues in our lives. Amen!

In Christ, Through Mary,

Dear Parishioners,

This past Saturday, there was a security incident that occurred at Holy Name of Jesus Church during the 5 pm Mass. Several parishioner cars were broken into during the mass. Police reports were filed and the police promised to patrol during church services.

I have contacted the Archdiocese and we are proceeding with adding security cameras on the property at Holy Name Church. Currently St. Angela Church and St. Norbert Church have security cameras in place.

We all need to be cautious when attending mass at any of the campuses. Please do not leave any personal belongings visible in your car. If you see something suspicious, please call 911 immediately.

Please continue to pray for peace in our world.

Fr. Peter Faimega.

Here are 125 words about Sunday's first reading, and two questions that the reading raises for our community, as a community.

Isaiah's oracle starts casually. He's just telling a story: "My friend" went about the routine tasks of planting and cultivating grapes, guarding them and preparing a wine-press. We expect a happy (juicy?) ending. But the yield is only wild grapes! The dreadful moral of the story? The failed crop is the nation (ancient Israel) itself! And history will treat it just as a frustrated farmer would treat a failed vineyard.

As we often say of prophecies and parables, look for the startling element and start your interpretation there. The startling-element device comes from the ancient art of rhetoric, of expressing your views in ways that capture the attention of your audience, and then capture their allegiance. The prophets had only speech, and limited writing; they used them effectively and memorably.

Our community communicates internally and externally. How much effort do we put into polishing our rhetoric? Do we enrich our messaging efforts by collaborating in their creation?

Communion of Saints Devotion

The month of November has traditionally been a time when the Church celebrates the Communion of Saints, prays for those who have died, and prepares us to welcome the one St. Francis called "Sister Death". In keeping with this tradition, we will once again be creating Communion of Saints devotion areas, on which we will honor, not only some recognized Saints of the Church but our loved ones who have gone before us. We are inviting families to share with us a photograph (in a frame if possible) of loved ones who have died. In order to design the devotional spaces, we ask photos be turned into the Parish Office or brought to the sacristy of the church by October 29th

All photos will be returned in December.
